Guwahati College gives utmost priority to the safety and security of girl students inside its campus. An Internal Complaints Committee has been set up to look into probable complaints from students as well as lady members of the teaching and non-teaching staff and recommend corrective measures and the action required to protect women from sexual harassment at workplace. The entire college campus is placed under CCTV surveillance to monitor the security and safety of all concerned. On special occasions, like the College Students' Union Election, Annual College Week, and Freshers' Social etc. the college authority requests the local police station for additional security personnel including a large number of woman constables. The regular security guards in the college are counseled by the college authority on gender issues. The separate common room for girl students in the college is well equipped with attached facilities.

Experts in the medical field are roped in from time to time to interact with the girl students of the college on health (both mental and physical) related issues linked to women. The International Women's Day is celebrated in the college on a regular basis. In order to sensitize the young generation to gender related issues different unconventional measures are adopted from time to time like organizing poster making contest, short film making competition etc. on the theme of women empowerment. Sports events for girls are organized from time to time. The NCC wing of the college has many girl cadets.

In recent times, the Women's Forum of the college has made an attempt to expand its network of activities outside the college campus. The Forum has recently brought out a volume on 'Gender and society'. The volume, edited by Dr. Karabee Medhi and Dr. Sonmoni Roy, contains a collection of research papers and articles on gender issues and their relevance to society.

Over the years Guwahati College has made a concerted effort at celebrating and organizing different national and international commemorative days, events and festivals. Bharat Ratna Dr Bhupen Hazarika's death anniversary on 5 November is also considered to be an important occasion by the people of Assam. Rich tributes are paid to the maestro on the occasion by students and teachers in our college as well. Moreover, the college abides by the Central/State Government's occasional instruction to celebrate a particular day. Sardar Vallabhbhai Patel's birthday on 31 October is one such day. In a similar way, the college organized 'azadi ka amrit mahotsav', an initiative by the Govt of India to celebrate and commemorate the 75th year of Independence.

Celebrating the county's Independence Day and Republic Day is a regular practice in the college. The national flag is unfurled by the Principal of the college on such occasions. One of the senior faculty members is usually asked to enlighten the students on the sacrifices made by our freedom fighters and also our duties and responsibilities as conscious citizens of a free democratic country. The NCC and NSS cadets play an important role on such occasions.
